They were directed against the proposals to erect high-risé towers in a place where they would be entirely unacceptable as regards aesthetics, compatibility with the adjacent Causeway environment, the ability of Wharf Street and nearby narrow thoroughfares to handle the resulting traffic congestion, interference with the westward view of the harbor and hills, and general conformity with the area.

However it turns out, let us not assume in Canada that we shall be immune to the consequences. The Customer ...

I am grateful to Bob Hunter for the article reprinted in the Times for July 22. It underlined for me something which, two years out from England, I had long come to suspect. Canada, like the United States, has government by businessmen.

True, it is not so gross here as it is there, but it is more so than in England.

Some time ago I made an enquiry of an American company, and, after no. response, a complaint. Finally, I heard from the sales manager in Toronto, who reluctantly admitted his error, gently chided me for writing the president (which he put down to ignorance) and indicated that I should write to him in

I replied that, while I had not known of the existence of the Toronto office, I reserved the right to "go to the fountain head" as and when I pleased.

The whole affair underlined for me an attitude, namely, that the firm is "top of the heap", not the customer. The old dictum "the customer is always right" provokes a hollow laugh.

There are rumblings of customer revolt against chain stores. Let it come quickly and openly, to force a restoration of the ideal "the customer is always right.

Could anyone visualize a more gross blot upon the landscape than a shopping plaza?

We could do several things - force a ulti-storey rule upon future schemes insist upon a higher standard of architecture and appearance and give priority to those firms who will provide that most important person, the customer, with service, and not say "serve H. H. Bridge, 3904 Shelbourne.

It is the more disconcerting to read in Montreal newspaper, The Gazette which keeps an attentive eve on the persons are incensed with the minister. The problem, as they see it, is that there are insufficient places at the public trough and that Mr. Pepin has shut them unworthy people foreigners, to boot,

The difficulty is that the government pays on the package basis. Naval architects frequently specify components which are made abroad. These go into the package for which the builders claim dized loans. Component makers argue that the taxpayer, who sustains Santa Claus, is helping to-pay for imports. The home manufacturer should have the business, to the exclusion of outsiders, and the taxpayer should support him.

Coupled with this theme argument, now becoming a trifle shopworn, that the government is passing up an opportunity to develop design and technological abilities vital to our economic future.

According to the wisdom of the East there is a last straw even for-a camel.

In any case, the minister has an even better reason for resisting this pressure.

Canadian shipyards, in the ordinary way, are simply not competitive with those of the major building nations. Costs in this country are too high for insubsidized business. Mr. Pepin has been able, however, to extract advantage from a temporary situation and to create employment in the vards by a transi-

Foreign Yards Plugged

The opportunity arose because foreign yards at the moment are plugged with orders. Customers are willing to pay premiums up to ten per cent in order to ensure delivery. In this situation the Pepin subsidies are enough to bring business to Quebec and other builders But there is no guarantee whatever that this situation will continue for long. The likelihood is that it will not for the obvious reason that builders elsewhere dislike turning away business. If demand seems likely to be sustained, they will expand to meet it. They have good reason to do so for, over the years, they have been competitive and we have not Concern over secondary industry is understandable but the taxpaver unlikely to grasp the logic of building through subsidies firms geared to an industry which is thoroughly unstable. In recent years the argument about pools of technological skills has sustained one venture after another - the Bras d'Or hydrofoil seems to be the latest which only to be written off in the end because prices were out of line or the potential customers simply not interested.

Not another. Surely by now the taxpayer has been stung enough.

The diverse political paths of Catholic priests have com-mon denominators—the Viet-nam war and the experience of ministering to the inner cit-ies where food and housing become more pressing needs than spiritual guidance.

'WHERE WAS CHURCH?'

It was the war and problems of the inner city-poverty, crime, poor education and lack of jobs—that spurred Father McLaughlin to question the traditional role of parish priest.

"My Baltimore, white, middle-class and Irish Catholic heritage somehow led me to want to be a priest," he said.

NABOB'S MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

Quality is Nabob's middle name! If you're not completely satisfied with new Nabob Orange Flavour Crystals, Nabob Foods will refund your money.*

Every family breakfast will be sunnier when you pour new Nabob Sungold - tiny, orange flavour crystals that burst into zesty, "wake-emup" flavour that's more like fresh orange juice than ever.

You really pour the sunshine in because new Nabob Sungold is enriched with Vitamin C. In fact, there's as much Vitamin C in Sungold as in fresh oranges, so you do right by your family's nutrition.

So convenient because Nabob Sungold comes in a fresh, bright carton with 2 pouch packages, one to make up for the "fridge", one to keep handy when everyone shouts "more".

Serve Nabob Sungold ice cold and serve it often. It's the perfect breakfast drink, but it's great for after school and after play refreshment.

Q. AND A.

The Newest Clue To a Lost Symbol

Being our Questions and Answers Department, mostly historical:

Question: "A week or more ago I wrote you in connection with the disgusting letter you received from a hippie living with a girl on China Beach. Since you normally print the comments of readers on controversial subjects and must certainly have received several on this topic, I am wondering

Answer: No, sir. I am not. The mail response to that letter one young man's opinion — was almost entirely from older readers who seized upon it to justify an antagonism and condemnation of young people generally rather than a reasonable reply to one boy's heresies. Several, including yourself, sir, made the point that you would no longer pick up young hitch-hikers, a response that is totally irrational. I am just not interested in retailing am just not interested in retailing such mindless animosity, especially since I'm convinced that it doesn't

Question: "It was on the air last night' that Mr. Pierre Berton is seeking information on the whereabouts of the last spike of the Canadian Pacific Railway," writes Arthur White, of our town, "My information is that the spike is in the possession of Mrs. W. H. Remnant, of Yellowknife, where I lived prior to retirement: Could you communicate this clue to Mr. Berton?"

Answer: Pierre tells me from Toronto that his own search, spärked by research for his forthcoming book. The Last Spike, has also narrowed down to Mrs. Remnant, though it appears that the spike, if it is the original, has been verted into the right. worked into the shape of a carving knile and thus isn't readily identifiable.

The clues to date: Donald A. Smith (Later Lord The clues to date: Donald A. Smith (Later Lord Strathcona) drove the spike at Craigellaghie on Nov. 7, 1885, to mark the completion of the C.P.R. When the ceremony was over the roadmaster, one Frank Brothers, removed it because he feared that souvenir hunters might tear up the track to get at it. Brothers presented the spike to Edward Beatty, who became president of the CPR in 1923. It was subsequently stolen from Beatty's desk in Montreal, Later a spike came into the possession of Henry Cambie, the B.C. engineer, who thought it to be the original. Cambie, in turn.

Says Pierre: "I'm dying to know the whole story since it's one artifact that symbolizes the fundamental and essary change in our concept of Canada. My thanks to Mr White. I'll let him know if we solve the mystery.

and deep admirer of Emily Pauline Johnson, in her last years. In Vancouver we were particularly interested in your article on the Mohawk Princess in the Times' Centennial Edition," writes Maureen Hartin, of Sidney. "My father always thought that her name would godure more as a crusader against injustice to the Canadian Indian than merely as a poet of nature, I wonder if this was your own conclusion as the result of your research into her life?"

Answer: Pauline did write some strong pieces as the self-styled "saga singer of her people, the bard of the noblest folk the world has ever seen," but the bulk of her work is related to the Canadian wilderness.

Very few of her protest poems have found their way into the anthologies or school texts though I find it hard to believe the charge by one writer that "it was a side of her life and work that respectable bourgeois society preferred to forget." Judged purely on literary merit her lyrical nature poems would surely be the logical first choice of most editors.

Perhaps the most enduring of her poems of protest is The attle Thief in which she tells of the killing of an Indian chief a posse of white men. There is a confrontation then with Indian woman who speaks to them in these words

You have cursed, and called him a Cattle Thief, though you robbed him first of bread . . . starved with a hollow hunger

We owe to you and your race.
. . You say your cattle are not ours, your meat is not our meat; When you pay for the land you live in, Give back our herds of game; Give back the furs and the forests that were ours before you came;

Give back the peace and the plenty Pagline was also a staunch defender of Canadian independence against the encroachment of U.S. settlers. Writing of a visit to Saskatchewan in 1902, she recalled a dinner at which the American hostess declared, "When next you come here you will see the Stars and Strines flying over this house." To which Pauline replied: If I do I will empty a shotgun into it!" And she concluded: "When we left our Yankee hostess and her strident sentiments far behind u our great Canadian prairie was a sweeter thing to QUESTION: "Four years ago, when I established a small business in Victoria, B.C. Hydro requested a security deposit of $75 for my account. Since that time they have found cause to cut off my electricity on two occasions. I realize that this is the price one has to pay for being late in payments. However, as I had to pay re-connection charges on both occasions I cannot really see either the purpose or the usefulness of my security deposit. What is more, the money I gave B.C. Hydro four years ago does not pay interest which seems to me most unfair."

ANSWER: Since your letter, as you now know, B.C. Hydro has returned your original deposit, convinced that, despite your two failures to pay your bill on time, you're now a good risk.

Security deposits are mandatory for all new-businesses and also for home-owners without a credit standing as a form of insurance against businesses going bankrupt or home-owners disappearing in the still of the night. They're unrelated, as B.C. Hydro sees it, to the payment of due bills or re-connection charges. Most are returned on an average of two years later where the client has established his credit.

Your point about the deposit not carning interest would appear to be a valid complaint, but B.C. Hydro seems to have a pretty good point, foo, in protesting that bookkeeping costs would be prohibitive. The alternative they propose where the security deposit is around $100 or more is to purchase a B.C. Hydro parity bond, which pays seven per cent, and use that as the deposit. The record doesn't show that this was explained to you. If it wasn't it should have been.

Now everybody kiss and make up.

VICTIM DROWNS

of those expropriated by the B.C. Hydro, is presumed to have drowned at Shawnigan Lake Tuesday.

An inquest has been ordered.

An RCMP spokesman said Une Alexander Sandstrom was swimming 60 to 70 feet from shore on the northwest arm of the lake when he was seen to be in difficulty by a passing Esquimalt motorist, Pat Carson, of 1177 Highrock.

Carson swam out to the floundering Colwood, man, towed him to shore but was unable to revive him.

No date has been set for the inquest which has been ordered by Duncan coroner Thomas Lines.

Pat Codyre, of 1890 Munn, who is still resisting the order to have his own home expropriated by Hydro, said he was "stunned" when he heard of Sandstrom's death.

"I knew him very well. He broke down and cried when they made him, leave his borne. He was a woorderful

With the victory, Burrards broke a four-game losing and stretched Shamrocks' defeat skein to 14 games.

The Victorians have a chance to reverse things tonight in the capital city while tackling Vancouver at 8 in Memorial Arena.

SIX STRAIGHT GOALS Shamrocks opened scoring with a goal by Brent Atkins, but Vancouver bounced back with six straight goals to lead Irish back with four straight goals early in the second period.

However, just as Victoria appeared to be coming back. Frank Alexander was sent to the dressing room following a fight with Ward Sanderson. Alexander received 32 minutes in penalties including five minutes for fighting, five minutes for kicking, a 10minute misconduct and a match penalty. Within minutes Vancouver but Vancouver bounced back with six straight goals to lead 6-1 after the first period.

With a faithfulness to the written text that keeps the show going for a full three hours, Mr. William retains the Venetian setting for the action but makes it a kind of timeless never-never land that includes a transvestite orgy, an Edwardian restaurant, tousies it has no descriptions at once that at times it becomes a confusing of the play, while simultane-ously remaining frustratingly collage of nightmarish images."

Mud Flat Clean-Up Considered

A mud flat below the Causeway on Government Street will be cleared if the job does not cost too much money.

Victoria council's public works committee, decided Tuesday the flat; a few inches of which are visible at low tide, could be skimmed away without damaging the cause-

R. H. Goodchild, 1389 Slater, had written to city hall twice calling for removal of the "stinking mud flat." Two months ago, aldermen dealt with Goodchild's first letter and decided the flat could not be removed.

Goodchild refused to believe this and wrote back. Tuesday city engineer Jim Garnett told the committee skimming would prevent the mud from being seen at low tide.

Aldermen decided to get a cost estimate from Garnett before proceeding with the

Sports Anglers May Have Won Strait Battle

Arguments put forward by arguments put forward by against a department of fisheries proposal to cut their fishery reserve in the Strait of Juan de Fuca in half appear to have worked.

Action may now be stalled until a migratory study can be carried out. This could take two years.

Rod Hourston, area fisheries director, said Tuesday that his department were still evaluating the arguments brought forward at a recent Vancouver meeting of com-mercial and sport fishing representatives with members of his department.

One of those at the meeting was Howard English, who is chairman of the B.C. Wildlife Federation's fisheries commit-tee and southern Vancouver Island representative to the sport fishing advisory com-mittee of the department of fisheries and forestry.

NETTING PRESSURE

Howard warned that reducing the fishery from eight to four miles offshore between Sheringham Point and William Head and opening the remainder to commercial fishermen would increase netting pressure of declining summer coho stocks.

Both he and fisheries' biolo gist Sandy Argue agreed that the summer coho were the fish most caught by sport fishermen, not the larger ocean-run fall coho whose numbers are on the increase in the strait.

Howard pointed out that progress in international thinking is moving toward increasing Canadian dependence on Canadian-produced stocks.

SUFFICIENT

He suggested the wall of commercial nets that are fished between Sheringham Point to the Bonilla-Tatoosh Line is more than sufficient. To give commercial fish more area is wrong,

The commercial industries' short-term desires will be provided for by the present proposal being implemented.

"The people's needs and resources' needs will be left to exist on the crumbs from the salmon feast."

Socred Picnic

There will be a costume parade of centennial dress at George Driediger, president f the Social Credit League, said everyone is welcome at the picnic. It's a bring-your-own-box-lunch affair.

DRIVER CHARGED AFTER ACCIDENT

Two inveniles escaped with minor injuries when their car left Esquimalt Road early this morning, went over a bank and overturned several times, demolishing the vehicle.

Police have charged the driver with failing to take a breathalayzer test and dangerous driving

Police said the car left the road near the heliport entrance at about 12:25 a.m.

Brenner explained that herbalists must have a knowledge of medicine to understand what medicinal properties herbs possess. But he claims that drugs contain "chemicals which are destructive in certain ways.
"Not everybody can take (medical) drugs," Brenner said. He explained that many peoples' systems can't cope with the strength of some drugs.
"There are herbs for any disease," he said, defining a herb as "a plant or flower which grows naturally, possessing a high grade of medicinal properties."

By STELLA BRUCE

NEW YORK (WNS) - It's a sobering but inescapable fact that a bride is twice as likely to be a widow at 40 than her husband is to be a widower.

This statistic, recently pro cec by the World Health Organization, just confirms what many woman have long suspected: that if you're going to keep a man alive to anything approaching the tra-ditional three-score and ten, you must reconcile yourself to making it almost a full-time

The trouble is that by the time a woman realizes her husband is not as tough as she thought, she might have already dispatched him briskly to the cemetery. For men, as a race, are not tough at all. In fact, they are very than one gives his wife his heart when he marries . . . and it's up to her to look after it. Wives, say the experts, have an instinctive flair for self - preservation. Husbands, as a rule, have none. Which is the main reason why 800,000 apparently healthy men in the U.S. drop dead each year from heart attacks. Fast living, over-work, stress and lack of exercise have combined to sign their death certificates.

There are, in fact, four simples rules which, if observed, could prolong the lives of thousands of husbands: rules that could be enforced by any wife who loves her husband enough to want him to stay around for a

Four Rules

First, don't let him become overweight. Second, get him to cut down, or even stop smoking cigarettes. Third, encourage regular moderate exercise. And lastly, try to stop him worrying.

All these will be vigorously resisted by any husband worth the name. He will accuse you of taking the pleasure from his life, of starving him, of treating him like a child, and interfering in things that don't concern you.

And yet, although they would never admit it, most men actually regard it as a wife's responsibility to look after her husband's health

Take Risks

Says Dr. Sprague: "Millions of men take pointless risks without even knowing it. They have suicidal tendencies: fatal weaknesses for pastry and fatty foods, and for playing strenuous games with opponents half their age. B.C. Fruit — the best part of summer!

CHERRIES · APRICOTS · PEACHES · PEARS · PLUMS

There's a whole summer full of luscious goodness coming your way . . . with daily arrivals of juicy, fresh fruit, direct from sunny Okanagan orchards.

And ready now - B.C. Apricots. Golden, succulent, juicy they're Canada's one exotic fruit!

Stretch the summer parade of Okanagan goodness right through the winter by putting up plenty of your own home-made apricot jams and preserves. It's so easy - and their bright sunshine colour and tangy taste will add so much to winter meals.

And enjoy fresh B.C. Apricots often while they're in season. Serve them any way you'd serve peaches - in pies, shortcakes, with cream, or as snacks, right from the "Fresh-tival" fruitbowl.

To ripen - If the apricots you buy are not quite ripe, simply store them at room temperature for a few days and they'll ripen perfectly without loss of flavour.

An unseen breed of vandals is stalking B.C. waters, creating dangers for boaters, many problems for the department of transport and considerable expense to taxpayers.

What they do is shoot up or smash navigational aids, steal marine lamps and even the batteries that keep them

Capt, Bill Exley says that in the seven years he's been superintendent of lights for the federal department of transport not a single prowler has been caught.'

The reasons are obvious.

YOUNGSTERS

Some of the vandalism carried out on aids near the shoreline, such as Roche Point in Vancouver Harbor where vandalism has become a way of life, is the work of youngsters.

But in the majority of cases it is the work of adults, people on boats who, them-selves, may find themselves in trouble because of a light shot out by another-of their

COST. HEAVY

Exley reports that any damage or doused light is usually reported "pretty damn quick" but the cost can be heavy.

A rotating light, such as the one at Buschie Ledge, costs $1,500 to replace. If a ship has to be sent out to repair the aid, the cost is $1,500 a day; a helicopter, $150 an hour.

It can also tax a man's Loopholes in Saanich's existing zoning bylaw were disclosed to the municipal planning committee Tuesday night.

They cover use of tents, trailers and mobile homes on vacant residentially-zoned lots.

A report by planner Tom Loney said this use currently cannot be restricted because a tent or trailer is a use.

"I don't know if we have a problem," he said, although

"I'don't know if we have a problem," he said, although there was one report of people living in a trailer on a residentially-zoned lot.

In this case, he said the public prosecutor had stated that under the present bylaw there is "no way we can regulate" because tents and trailers are not structures.

The proposed new zoning bylaw, which will take several meetings of planning committee consideration before it goes to council covers this kind of situation, he said.

"Mobile homes are probably not a problem because if they are put on a foundation they become structures," he said.

Planning committee agreed to recommend that the existing bylaw be amended to prevent feared abuses of residentially-zoned vacant land.

Seedpods Excite Flower Arrangers

By HILDA BEASTALL

Flowering lettuce and ripening seedpods on irises are not ideal from the gardener's viewing point, misfortunes are likely to excite a flower arranger. This was discovered as a result of a spring misfortune which permitted two kinds of lettuce seedlings to hurry into flowering stems from being crowded and lacking water.

A flower arranger went into raptures over the "delicate branching pattern, the over the "delicate branching pattern, the yellowish green tone, the tiny-bud clusters." Could she have a stem or two if I didn't need all of them?

It was one way of clearing the batch out to encourage a resowing for a good lettuce crop by September. So my generosity was boundless.

The arranger was shown a batch of bronze leaved lettuce seedlings also running up to flowering heads. These were even more desirable than the green ones. I thought "how lucky can I be?"

Would iris seedpods be of any use? Yes, indeed, especially if almost completely dried and beginning to split.

We agreed to leave them another week, since German not very active just now and ripening will do no

A tour was made to find other plants which had finished blooming but not had old flowers removed as is our common regular programming on all networks may be interrupted periodically for special reports on new developments.

BASEBALL. 5 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. The Chicago Cubs eet the Expos. Dave Van Horne and Don Drysdale report the FOOTBALL. 5 p.m., Channel 8. The Winnipeg Blue Bombers the Argonauts in the season's opener in Toronto, THE COURTSHIP OF EDDIE'S FATHER. 7.30 p.m., Channel 4 (Rerun). Good scheduling of this repeat episode since it guest-stars Astronaut Gordon Cooper in a week when all eyes are turned to the trip of Apollo 15 to the moon. Little Eddie sends a letter, inviting Cooper for lunch and, to eveyone's amazement the astronaut accepts.

THE MEN FROM SHILOH. 7:30 p.m., Channel 5 (Rerun)— "Flight From Memory." Tisha Sterling is a bride-to-be apparently running off before the wedding. Her horse rears while she's watering him, and knocks her unconscious. Colonel MacKenzie witnesses the accident, and brings the girl to a mountain cabin of an old, crusty recluse (Burgess Meredith), where they treat and also try to find out why she's running away

ROOM 222. 8 p.m., Channel 4. (Rerun). "If It's Not Here, Where Is It?" A 19-year-old Marine corporal (guest actor Murray MacLeod) returns to finish his high school education after a tour in Vietnam. He thinks he'll be treated with awe as a returning hero, but finds himself cold-shouldered by the other students. Interesting plot which undoubtedly related to many similar situations around the country.

THE SMITH FAMILY. 8:30 p.m., Channel, 4. (Rerun) Squeaky-voiced Barbara Nichols guests in this episode, "The Greener Pastures." Chad Smith is injured serving a warrant, and begins to wonder whether the risks are worth it. He considers a job as a private eye, but finally turns it down when he finds he can't really quit the force.

MEDICAL CENTRE. 9 p.m., Channel 4. (Rerun) dedicated young minister (Martin Sheen) runs a foundation for parolees despite a heart condition which, he is warned, is getting worse because he won't ease up. Despite the warning, the minister continues his work, especially a search for one parolee in particular need of help. He suffers a severe attack, necessitating heart surgery.

DES O'CONNOR SHOW. 9 p.m., Channel 5 — American comic Charley Callas is back for his second straight appearance and does a monolgue about movie gangsters and also portrays a Japanese officer interrogating captured British officer (O'Confor). Conniee Stevens' production number this week is "Hands Off the Man." Des sings "Don't Blame Me," "Til See You In My Dreams" and "Let There Be Love."

NFL ACTION. 10:30 p.m., Channel 4.—The Decline and Rise of the Dallas Cowboys." The big success story of last football season was the comeback of the Dallas Cowboys who were counted out in midseason, then made a remarkable recovery to win their way into the Super Bowl before the bubble burst, but not in disgrace, at the hands of Baltimore's Colts. The comeback is dramatic.

YOUR HEALTH Dr. Walter Alvarez

Neugarten of the mental processes of 100 normal women between ages 43 and 52, who came from working and middle-class backgrounds. All-of the women were in good health, married, and living with their husband, and all had at least one child. They were interviewed for at least five or six hours, especially with regard to feelings of anxiety, satisfaction with life, and their self-concent.

Dr. Neugarten received the impression that there was nothing' peculiar about the pre-menopausal, menopausal or post-menopausal women — they seemed quite capable of handling the menopausal time of life; in fact, they tended to minimize the importance of the menopause. Only four of the 100 regarded it as a major source of worry. Thirty could not think of anything bad about, it. Sixty of them maintained that there is no relationship between the menopause and sexuality. Half of them said that sex became less important after menopause, while the other half found it more enjoyable with the threat of pregnancy removed. found it more enjoyable with the threat of pregnancy removed.

The women who reported the most symptoms and viewed the menopause as disturbing, unpleasant and unpredictable were particularly those who reported earlier difficulties with menstruation and pregnancy, or who had previously had problems adjusting to their sexual role, or who had had early bad sexual experiences.

Thus, Dr. Neugarten concluded that there is very little evidence that the menopause is necessarily a "crisis time" for a woman. As Dr. Neugarten reported, although about 75 per cent of the women told of some disturbance or discomfort during

Dr. Neugarten's findings are much like mine. I knew well a woman who went through the menopause without any discomfort. One day she simply stopped menstruating, and that was all. Many a stable, quiet, sensible, and perhaps insensitive woman can go through the menopause without distresses of any kind. On the other hand, the highly sensitive, migrainous type of woman can be accept the proof of the control of t can have very trying hot flushes for ten years or more and the woman with a poor nervous heredity who has always tended at times to be depressed, or who has become mentally upset at her periods with much premenstrual tension and irritability, is likely to have a stormy menopause with some depression.

The problem is complicated because so many women are troubled at this time of life by unhappiness of various origins, such as widowhood, the departure of children, loss of a husband's affection or sexual love, a husband's heart disease, or loss of a ing of being useful and needed. As I have often said here, what all aging women should know is that when the menopause comes, if there are disturbing flushes and sweats and depressions, a doctor can usually give great relief if he will only give enough ovarian hormone and not be afraid of

ern railway express to start operating soon has sounded the death knell of a hallowed New Zealand tradition.

The overnight 400-mile train journey between Auckland, the largest city, and Wellington, the capital, has often been credited with building a battling race in New Zealand, with the physique and stamina to become world champion r u g b y footballers. The trip was a fight all the way, and a matter of the survival of the fittest.

the North Island, and Wellington is at its extreme south. The expresses which made the journey nightly in each direction were built about 30 years ago, but the essentials of the journey have remained unchanged for much longer.

The expresses provided sleeping cars and first- and second class day, or sit-up, coaches but had no provision for meals aboard.

So sustenance along the way was by way of 10-minute "re-freshment stops" at intervals of a few hours.

To most people, even when well wined and dined before departure, a cup of tea and a bun at every stop became a matter of compulsion—even when awakened from a fitful sleep in the middle of the night by the collector passing through the conductor passing through the carriages chanting something like "Tem fresh tamara," which was interpreted to mean 10 min-utes stop soon for refreshments at Taumarunui, or some other wayside station.

DASH FOR 'BLOCK CAKE'

This was a signal to put on jackets, reach for discarded shoes and queue up for a 100-yard dash the moment the train ground to a halt.

The elderly, halt and lame were apt to be brushed aside in the rush. Many people insisted that training in scrummaging in pushing through the throng to the front rank of the refresh-ment counter was a big factor in the development of rugby for-

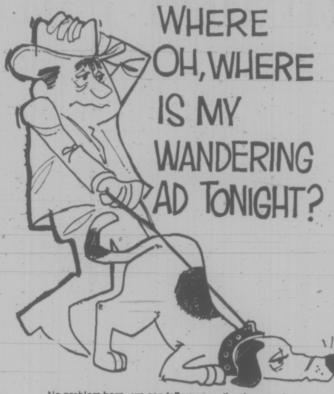

Standard fare included cups of tea in massive railway china, sandwiches and "block cake"— a solid slab of indigestible currant cake.

ARMY HAS FORCE

In one-party states, with most leaders seeking life tenure, force is the only answer. The army and police have the firepower, the force.

African armies in colonial days served as the protector and enforcement arm of the colonial governor and his ruling apparatus. Loyalty was to the governor who paid the wages, not to the people and certainly not to any such amorphous concept as a nation. #### TALKS MAY START Loffmark's New Power

WASHINGTON (AP) - United States officials expect that much of the preparatory work with Red China on President Nixon's Peking trip will be conducted through the Chinese embassy in Ottawa.

Canada and China recently established diplomatic relations and the Canadian capital appears to be the most convenient place for U.S.-China contacts from Washington's standpoint.

The Peking government assigned a senior envoy. Huang Hua, as ambassador in Ottawa.

He is known to Americans as a skilled diplomat and it is believed that in appointing him to Ottawa, Poking had in mind a role for him in dealing with the United States.

The three-year-old plant, the major industry here, has employed about 500. It is scheduled to close tonight after processing is completed on 200,000 pounds of fish brought in Tuesday.

Company officials have placed the $6-million plant in liquidation because of a cash shortage and the Nova Scotia government is trying to find a new operator.

The latest step in an apparent government effort to increase its control of the practice of medicine was disclosed in regulations made under the Hospital Act. The cabinet order would enable Loffmark to instruct a hospital board of manage-ment to "refuse, alter, modify, suspend, revoke or cancel" any permit giving doctor privileges at any hos-pital. He could also order that

The board would have the right to appeal such instruc-tions to the provincial cabinet. The cabinet decision on any appeals is binding and

Under the previous regula-tions hospital boards were not required to state any reason for their decisions. Similarly, Loffmark need not give any reasons for his instructions.

Wallace said he has never heard of a case of a hospital abusing the strong I shudder at the possibilities opened up by the edict whereby the minister of health in fact is given excessive powers over the ability of a doctor to conduct his practice.

I am very distressed by another action of the minister obviously designed in complete political control ver the medical profession,

He said the government move to license laboratories and shift diagnostic tests from private to public laboraries also interferes with

Asked what the new order meant to his position in the party, Wallace said:
"These recent moves certainly compel me to reconsider my position within the Social Credit Party."

He said he had no alternative but to carry out the reconsideration in view of "this kind of political inter-ference in professional matters from a so-called free enterprise party which is supposed to recognize the rights and interests of individuals.

The move recalls the ngthy controversy during the 1971 legislative session over the question of whether Loffmark had threatened a Clearwater doctor with loss of his right to practise medicine.

During the controversy,

Loffmark dispatched an missary to Alberta to get a tatement from the former Clearwater doctor on the Vancouver doctor who made a speech at the 1970 Social Credit Party convention about the difficulty of getting prac-tising privileges at a Vancou-

During the 1970 session, Loffmark introduced a bill giving himself the right to appoint an administrator to replace any hospital board that he felt wasn't acting in the public interest.

Wallace, among other MEAs, opposed the granting of the powers to the minister. The bill was passed:

Loffmark aroused the ire of doctors earlier this year by blaming them for a major share of the inefficiency in hospital use in B.C. He was also accused of breaking a confidence by releasing results of a study carried out at Royal Jubilee Hospital. In recent weeks Loffmark also tangled with the medical profession over his charges that doctors weren't doing their part in treating heroin

Question: "It was on the air last ight that Mr. Pierre Berton is inight that Mr. Pierre Berton is seeking information on the whereabouts of the last spike of the Canadian Pacific Railway,"—writes Arthur White, of our town, "My information is that the spike is in the possession of Mrs. W. H. Remnant, of Yellowknife, where I lived prior to retirement, Could you communicate this clue to Mr. Berton?"

* * * Answer: Pierre tells me from Toronto that his own search, sparked by research for his forthcoming book, The Last Spike, has also narrowed down to Mrs. Remnant, though it appears that the spike, if it is the original, has been worked into the shape of a carving knife and thus isn't readily identifiable.

The clues to date: Donald A. Smith (Later Lord Strathcona) drove the spike at Craigellachie on Nov. 7, 1885; to mark the completion of the C.P.R. When the ceremony was over the roadmaster, one Frank Brothers, removed it because he feared that souvenir hunters might tear up the track to get at it. Brothers presented the spike to Edward Beatty, who became president of the CPR in 1923. It was subsequently stolen from Beatty's desk in Montreal. Later a spike came into the possession of Henry Cambie, the B.C. engineer, who thought it to be the original. Cambie, in turn, gave it to W. J. Lynch, chief of the patent office in Ottawa, It was inherited by his daughter, Mannie, now Mrs. Remnant. was inherited by his daughter, Mamie: now Mrs. Remnant

Says Pierre: "I'm dying to know the whole story since it's one artifact that symbolizes the fundamental and cessary change in our concept of Canada. My thanks to Mr. White. I'll let him know if we solve the mystery. * * *

Question: "Since my late father was a personal friend and deep admirer of Emily Pauline Johnson in her last years in Vancouver we were particularly interested in your article on the Mohawk Princess in the Times' Centennial Edition," writes Maureen Hartin, of Sidney. "My father always thought that her name would endure more as a crusader against injustice to the Canadian Indian than merely as a poet of nature. I wonder if this was war consciously as the result nature. I wonder if this was your own conclusion as the result of your research into her life?"

Answer: Pauline did write some strong pieces as the self-styled "saga singer of her people, the bard of the noblest folk the world has ever seen," but the bulk of her work is related to the Canadian wilderness.

Very few of her protest poems have found their way into the anthologies or school texts though I find it hard to believe the charge by one writer that "it was a side of her life and work that respectable bourgeois society preferred to forget." Judged purely on literary merit her lyrical nature poems would surely be the logical first choice of most editors.

Perhaps the most efiduring of her poems of protest is The Cattle Thief in which she tells of the killing of an Indian chief by a posse of white men. There is a confrontation then with an Indian woman who speaks to them in these words:

You have cursed, and called him a Look there, at that shrunken face, Starved with a hollow hunger We owe to you and your race.

. . . You say your cattle are not ours, We'll pay for the meat we eat. Give back our land and our country, Give back our herds of game; Give back the furs and the forests

Give back the furs and the forests that were ours before you came;
Give back the peace and the plenty...

Pauline was also a staunch defender of Canadian independence against the encroachment of U.S. settlers. Writing of a visit to Saskatchewan in 1902, she recalled a dinner at which the American hostess declared. When next you come here you will see the Stars and Stripes flying over this house." To which Pauline replied: If I do I will empty a shotoun into it!" And she concluded. "When we left our shotgum into it!" And she concluded: "When we left ou Yankee hostess and her strident sentiments far behind us

TALKS MAY START Loffmark's New Power

WASHINGTON (AP) - United States officials expect that much of the preparatory work with Red China on President Nixon's Peking trip will be conducted through the Chinese embassy in Ottawa.

Canada and China recently established diplomatic relations and the Canadian capital appears to be the most convenient place for U.S.-China contacts from Washington's standpoint.

The Peking government assigned a senior envoy. Huang Hua, as ambassador in Ottawa.

He is known to Americans as a skilled diplomat and it is believed that in appointing him to Ottawa, Peking had in mind a role for him in dealing with the United States.

Government policies for Prairies were good but have been misunderstood and misin-terpreted, he felt. In the coming year, he and other Liberal MPs would spend more time explaining what the government was doing.

Saying his foreign trips have not been well liked by the public and especially not by the press, he said he doesn't contemplate any foreign travel for some time. A government had to become more sensitive to public opinion as an election approached. It could do some unpopular things right after an election but had to stop if it hoped to survive.

Doctors and hospital spokesmen joined in angry condemnation today of new powers giving Health Minister Ralph Loffmark control over hospital privileges for physicians:

One hinted it could lead to a mass opting out of the provincial medical plan by doctors and its ultimate collapse.

The order-in-council announced Tuesday gives Loffmark authority to grant, restrict or deny a doctor the use of hospital facilities. Up to now the granting of hospital privileges was laid largely with a doctor's peers.

In statistics, the Lions led in total offence, 327 to 290, which in itself was enough to draw a "happy to get the two points" comment from Saskatchewan coach Dave Skrein.

In the dressing room after the game, Skrien indicated he was rprised that British Columbia —with a revamped lineup of 15 new faces, many of them rookies—had done so well against the Saskatchewan veterans who lost only two of 16 regular sea-

MONTREAL (CP) - Jamaica born boxer Danny Tucker died in hospital Tuesday of injuries suffered in a junior welterweight bout Monday night.

Tucker, 25, lapsed into a coma after falling to the canvas in the 10th round of a bout against Reynald Cantin, Canadian junior welterweight champion.

Cantin, who was awarded the fight on a technical knock-out, chased Tucker around the ring throughout the bout and had him helpless on the ropes when the bout was called. After the referee declared the TKO, ringside spectators heard Tucker say: "Come on ref. I'm all right, don't stor

STRONG IN FOURTH

British Columbia presented its biggest threat in the fourth quarter, controlling much of the play and picking up its only touchdown to narrow Saskatchewan's lead to four points.

Querterback Paul Brothers gambled on third down, after two passes were knocked out of Jim Young's grasp on the Sas-katchewan goal line, and hit Jim White for a first down at the Riders 23-yard line.

Two Big Plays Carry Riders Past Eskimos

OTTAWA (CP)-It probably wasn't what he intended, but Ottawa Rough Riders made coach Ray Jauch of Edmonton something of a prophet Tuesday night.

In a pre-game news conference Monday, Jauch said Riders were better than their last-place finish last year in the Eastern-Conference of the Canadian Football league.

Tuesday the Riders made it stick by beating the Eskimos 22-11 to the delight of 19,959 fans at the first league game of the season for both clubs.

YOUR HEALTH Dr. Walter Alvarez

I recently saw an interesting article on a study made by Dr. Neugarten of the mental processes of 100 normal women between ages 43 and 52, who came from working and middle-class backgrounds. All of the wonfen were in good health, married, and living with their husband, and all had at least one child. They were interviewed for at least five or six hours, especially with regard to feelings of anxiety, satisfaction with life, and their self-

Dr. Neugarten received the impression that there was nothing peculiar about the pre-menopausal, menopausal or postmenopausal women—they seemed quite capable of handling the menopausal time of life; in fact, they tended to minimize the importance of the menopause. Only four of the 100 regarded it as a major source of worry. Thirty could not think of anything bad about it. Sixty of them maintained that there is no relationship between the menopause and sexuality. Half of them said that sex became less important after menopause, while the other half found it more enjoyable with the threat of pregnancy removed. **

The women who reported the most symptoms and vie menopause as disturbing, unpleasant and unpredictable were particularly those who reported earlier difficulties with menstruation and pregnancy, or who had previously had problems adjusting to their sexual role, or who had had early bad

Neugarten concluded that there is very little evidence that the menopause is necessarily a "crisis time" for a woman. As Dr. Neugarten reported, a though about 75 per cent of the women told of some disturbance or discomfort during for it.

Dr. Neugarten's findings are much like mine. I knew well a woman who went through the menopause without any discomfort. One day she simply stopped menstruating, and that was all. Many a stable, quiet, sensible, and perhaps insensitive woman can go through the menopause without distresses of any kind. On the other hand, the highly sensitive, migrainous type of woman can have very trying hot flushes for ten years or more and the woman with a poor nervous heredity who has always tended at times to be depressed, or who has become mentally upset at her periods with much premenstrual tension and irritability, is likely to have a stormy menopause with some depression.

The problem is complicated because so many women are troubled at this time of life by unhappiness of various origins, such as widowhood, the departure of children, loss of a husband's affection or sexual love, a husband's heart disease, or loss of a feeling of being useful and needed.

As I have often said bere what all aging women should know.

As I have often said here, what all aging women should know is that when the menopause comes, if there are disturbing flushes and sweats and depressions, a doctor can usually give great relief if he will only give enough ovarian hormone and not be afraid of
